

Problem Statement

There are time management tools but none combine work with personal tasks and have built in money management for different times.

Details

Many people find it difficult to have their work and personal tasks in a single app. Most apps are either used for professional use or personal tasks but don't have a way to balance both. During times of the day people also spend and earn money and having a place to track this income or spending and pinpoint it to a time of day can be beneficial.
